

IICA conducts Executive Development Programme for Canara Bank Executives

The School of Finance, IICA, conducted an Executive Development Programme (EDP) for 33 executives of Canara Bank from August 4 to 8, 2014. The programme was organised to help participants to advance their strategic decision-making capabilities. The focus was on enhancing faster and more creative decisions on current competitive strategies and solutions and a deeper understanding of organizational dynamics. It is envisaged that this would lead to improved design and implementation of new initiatives and avoid destructive conflicts.

The programme also helped participants in building capabilities towards leading teams across functions and creating a plan to integrate the learning from the training into the work routine of each participant.
